Father Edward Kelley, Dooley" fame and at present the belved pastor of St. Ann's church, Chicago, once on a time made a trip around the world, during course of which he strayed into Mecca, only to he run out of the city at the point of a soldier'a hayonet. Fortunately for him an Egyptian cook's guide, who happened to he in the place, took him in charge and placed him on board the first train oing back to Medina. He still draws a long breath when he thinks of that experience and earnestly adrises prospective globe-trotters to cut Mecca off their visiting list When at home Father Kelley spends most of his time getting johs 'down-and-outera," and the parior of his rectory in the morning hours resembles nothing so much as an employment agency. His interest in people out of employment has greatly endeared him to the poor of his paris'ı and Chicago in general. Ask any policeman where Father Keiley lives and he will tell you a moment's hesitation. Father Kelley Is content to make this securing of jobs for poor feliows out of employment his life's work, and he feels certain that in doing this he is rendering religion in general, the greatest possible
